RIDING THE WAVE OF SERVICE TRANSFORMATION

people | trust | data | technology

14 - 15 OCTOBER, 2021 | HILTON HOTEL, BRISBANE

IPAA INSTITUTE OF
PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION
AUSTRALIA
QUEENSLAND

The 2021 IPAA National Conference will consider how public sectors are transforming service in the digital age – through the lenses of people, trust, data, and technology. It features some of the most influential thought leaders and practitioners in service transformation who will inform, challenge and inspire. This is the first IPAA National Conference to be delivered with both a live and virtual audience. Public servants and public purpose workers from across Australia, New Zealand and beyond have the opportunity to participate in this important discussion through an engaging, online experience. NEWS AND RESOURCES

COMMITMENT TO CONNECTION

We recently commissioned a piece of art from local Indigenous artist, Sarah Richards. Commitment to Connection tells the story of IPAA ACT and our commitment to Canberra and community, including our ongoing journey of reflection, respect and reconciliation. We're excited to own this beautiful piece and look forward to using it, and it's elements going forward. More >>>

HOW DO YOUR BIASES AFFECT YOUR BEHAVIOURS?

Unconscious or hidden beliefs – attitudes and biases beyond our regular perceptions of ourselves and others – underpins our patterns of behaviour around diversity and inclusion and can adversely affect how we engage with colleagues. Complete the Harvard Implicit Association Test (IAT) online tool, to gain greater awareness about your own biases, preferences and beliefs. More >>>

CELEBRATING STORIES AND LANGUAGE

Indigenous Literacy Day was launched on 1 September. Through storytelling, it provides a window into the richness, diversity and multilingual world of First Nations peoples with a selection of short, inspiring video stories by First Nations storytellers from across the country, including a stunning Welcome to my Country. FROM 'MICRO-STRESSES' TO 'MICRO-ACTIONS'

If lockdown is making you feel like you're losing control over your life, in most cases, your circumstance, mindset, physical or mental abilities, fears, passions, and goals can be improved by taking tiny, easy-to-implement actions that can psychologically build momentum. This FranklinCovey article explores how to focus on what's in your control to change, one micro-action at a time. More >>>

CYBER SECURITY IN AUSTRALIA | A TEAM SPORT

6 NOVEMBER 2020

On the back of the Government's release of the Cyber Security Strategy 2020, underpinned by an unprecedented investment of $1.35b in the Australian Signals Directorate over the next ten years, Abigail Bradshaw CSC, Head of the Australian Cyber Security Centre, outlined her priorities during a time of emerging cyber threats and global pandemic. Abigail's address was followed by a panel discussion with Narelle Devine CSM, Information and Cyber Security Executive at Telstra; Hamish Hansford, First Assistant Secretary, Cyber, Digital and Technology Policy Division at the Department of Home Affairs; and Justine Gough, Assistant Commissioner, Eastern Command at the Australian Federal Police. The event was hosted by Heather Cook, Deputy Director-General at the Australian Security Intelligence Organisation and IPAA ACT Councillor.
